Alex and Chas. McDonald report the best spring stock show and bull sale this year since '28. Alex had his champion bull, he got top price for him and average price was more than double the average price of the sale. So needless to say both Chas and Alex are all smiles' chuckles.

Just the item you have been looking for a midget pocket clip screwdriver with a shockproof handle and at a shock price too.

We have a real buy in a 1938 Chevrolet sedan, you should see this one.

Oscar Sletto seems to be the early bird in the field this year having sown his wheat in 10 days ago. You hope you don't have to eat the worms the early birds usually gets Oscar.

Ed Griffin took one of those good McDrg. 10 40 six cylinder tractors on Saturday and Frank says she's a dinger.

The Champion Fish and Game association is in the process of being formed and in about a week or two, we'll help you. Then the 2 cases of chukar partridge was turned loose in the couleses south of Don McLaughlin's on last Sunday.

Old Doc McIntyre still has his shingle on for grease guns and will do what you want him to do, if you would like. Win Penn gun grease you would have the tops in greasing satisfaction.

Any one who would like a set of chinless peasant eggs for hatching please leave you name. There are over 100 birds in the country this year and the result of last springs hatching

Jack Collins is visiting around the towns for the holidays. Jack says Dad can still point out the Social Creditors weak points.

Hooy ye, Hooy ye, our big Marshall Wells spring paint job is practically on and, oh boy is it a sale this year. Your spring house cleaning requirements are in this sale and it is a sale.

Jim Frazer took out a 9 foot McDrg. Harrow plow and seeder attachment the other day. Jim said that he wanted the best for his job.

Value Of School Festival Proven

Authorize Holding Another Annual Event

At the monthly meeting of the Champion School Board held on Tuesday presided over by Fleming teachers were given authority to plan for another school festival next year. Principal Baker had asked for the opinion of the Board as to its continuance in as much as funds available.

Believing that the students should be taught some responsibility as to the value of school property and equipment, the Board in dealing with the request for basket balls and other sport equipment said that the students should raise a fund to be matched with a contribution from the Board to purchase these articles. If young men could afford to purchase tailor made cigarettes, these boys should have sufficient pride not to expect the Board to provide all their sport but be willing to share. Removal of the ashes from the school grounds by the boys was one way in which money could be raised by the students and no doubt other schemes could be worked out in which all students, not just the boys, could participate.

TO PLANT TREES IN LOCAL PARK

Council Takes Up Routine Matters

Routine matters were taken up at Champion council meet held last Thursday. Storage of gasoline will be investigated at once as result of complaint of insurance inspector.

Necessity for having a pound and strict enforcement of dog license was discussed.

Frogs will be planted in the park this spring. It is felt that with attention the trees would become an asset. Mr. Dierment was given permission to plant tomatoes in the park property.

Clean up day will be held soon and householders are asked to prepare for same.

By law with reference to riding of bicycles on the side walk will be enforced.

Major Henderson presided with all members present.

LOCAL MERCHANT LOSES MOTHER

Mrs. A. C. McIntyre, mother of W. A. McIntyre, passed away Friday morning, April 7th in her 87th year. Funeral service was held on Sunday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary McIntyre, and Rev. Mr. Upton, of the United Church officiated. Interment was at the Blairmore Cemetery.

Decesed was born in Laurel, Ontario and came to the west in 1907. She was a widow and highly regarded both here and in other communities where she lived. Surviving are her husband, W. A. McIntyre, and two sons, all residing in western Canada.

Funeral expenses were paid by the family. Mrs. McIntyre in the loss of her mother.

Speaking over a western net work Monday Hon. James G. Gardiner minister of Agriculture explained the policy of the Federal Govt. towards agriculture. He stated that it was not a pegged price but an advance or initial payment of 60 cents together with a acreage bonus where yield went below average. Canada proposed to do better for her growers than any other country, stated the minister.

Assistance to other branches such as coarse grain live stock and dairy products was also planned.

Curiosity has been aroused over the furnishing of the apartment by the editor. It would be unfortunate to disappoint too many, but it is learned that he has been boasting of his ability to walk in the footsteps of Prime Minister McKenzie King, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Sir Edward Beatty, Major James Clark, new speaker of the Ontario Legislature and a host of other notables who are bachelors and no doubt is only trying to copy their example of having a modest little home of his own.

MR. CAFFEINE-NERVES learns who's bossWould Scale Mountain*Will Try Ascent Of Mystery Peak*For The Third Time

Don Munday, well known British Columbia mountaineer, announced that he would make a third attempt to scale the mystery peak near St. Paul, which rises 11,600 feet above Bella Coola Valley some 230 miles north of Vancouver and inland.

This will be his third expedition to the mountain since his first two attempts—Mrs. Munday and their 17-year-old daughter Edith.

Because an unbroken wall of ice, half a mile high in some places, blocks the way up the mountain, the lower slopes with constant avalanches, the giant coast range peak has defied efforts to scale its treacherous sides.

The Mundays were stopped on two previous occasions, once by impassable ice cliffs and again when dense mist obscured the upper slopes when victory was almost in sight.

HAD DIZZY SPELLS FOR 3 YEARSResult of Acid Indigestion

"Before taking Kruschen's Patent Writtle Salts, I had bad indigestion and hot flushes, had spells of acid indigestion, and was so weak and tired that the least thing would upset me. I was about three years in that condition."

"I am now better, I wovis how happy and glad I am today that I gave Kruschen's Salts to me. I have not had a spell for 18 months."

"I would like to tell all who suffers I did. I feel in better health today than I have for years. After taking Kruschen's Salts, I never had dizzy faints and hot flushes left me. I now feel so bright and cheerful and am able to work harder and finer."—(Mrs.) J.M.

Kruschen's Salts is an excellent restorative and a confection of internal cleanliness. The numerous salts in Kruschen's stimulate your appetite, help you to sleep, regular action. Your inside is thus kept clean of those poisons which often silence, accumulate, lower the whole tone of your system.

Apple Flour

Scientists in the state of Washington have invented apple flour, and they say it makes delicious bread. Although it does not contain wheat, it reduces the moisture in the new product to about 1 per cent. Its sponsors claim that the loaves do not dry out or become stale.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued

The Hermod taxied steadily down the field and took off trimly. There were instants when it seemed to hang in the clear air, suspended over the field, and one could see Constance Jordan waving Presently he lost dignity and importance and became a tiny toy figure in a world of playthings and vanished altogether.

They flew over the Santa Cruz mountains, brown, green, compact as if they had been carved out of wood and painted.

They circled the water and turned inland again, plucking up the mountains, Danville, San Jose, the air ports, the sprawling cities.

Sarah Lynn caught her breath. "Quick. Such heavenly quickness!" He nodded. "I have named him for you, the swift one. You know?"

"I know. Hermes-Mercy."

"Yes, 'down now.'"

The west was darkening when they swooped to earth with a swish, landing and rolled briskly to the hangar.

The old attendant came limping to open the door and help her out. Conrad Jordan followed him.

"What would you come to speak to him in the phone booth," the man addressed Gunnar, and the Norwegian ace followed him in.

The older flier stood with the receiver held high. "Hello, Gunnar! Do you mind I'm waiting for this Glendale connection. Will you run Miss Diana home for me?"

"Please don't trouble," she said quickly. "They will send a car for me, but Gunnar was already starting toward the roulette and she followed him.

He drove a car as smoothly as a plane. They had ticked off a twelfth mile before he spoke. "You have no fear?"

"No."

"That is good."

After a moment she said, "I want to be there."

"That is also good."

"Then, you think women should fly?"

"Why not? Women have courage, the skin they're born in. In the air, most of my countrymen the women fought off beside their men."

"I know," she responded, the governess' books from the library.

"My grandmother," he began again, his voice warmer than she had heard it before, "there could be no more courage in woman or man." Presently he said, "Your grandmother I also know."

Sarah Lynn smiled. "Oh, Great-grandma's splendid! She ran away from home when she was fifteen and joined an emigrant train and came across the plains in a covered wagon, and there were Indians and hunger and cold and—"

They were running into Danavale. "Oh, not my uncle's house! I want to go home, please. To the left." It would be over in a moment. There was a sharp, sudden jolt. "What's this? I've been wondering. There isn't any fear. I know that, of course, but when you're flying along, hour after hour, do you ever think about death?"

"Often," he told her rapidly. "With great interest. But not with—what is your word?—eagerness?"

She nodded; it seemed an excellent answer.

"This house?" The large, comfortable dwelling of Edwin and Adelaine Claude was all golden windows. "Death yes: An adventure." Conrad Jordan said, stopping the car. Life is one adventure; death is another. I wish you the good-evening."

Sarah Lynn stepped out, and instantly without another word, he took her.

Gunnar Thordred drove Conrad Jordan's car swiftly back to the airport and found the Hermod put away for the night. He had been waiting for the night, and the pilot had been waiting for the hangar.

"Say—" the Norwegian ace said gravely, "you are satisfied? I have asked the pardon: I have taken her to fly. It is finished."

She stood still, then, beginning to shake with excitement.

Her mother had stopped out of the machine and had run to her. There were tabs of dull crimson on her cheek and she was laughing in her shirt, cackling giggle.

Her great-grandmother said, "How good!"

"It must be almost at the

Princess Elizabeth is Taking Instructions On Arab Pony

Princess Elizabeth, heir to the throne of the British isles, is riding her Arab pony, which is one of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, presented to the King a year ago.

Emulating her uncle, the Duke of Windsor, when he was Prince of Wales, the Princess is taking preliminary lessons for participation in the games.

The Princess, under instruction by the King's head groom at Windsor, rides her own gray pony, "Snowball," and an Arab pony, which is one of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, presented to the King a year ago.

"All yours and only yours. Many happy returns from Great-Granny and Grandpa," Uncle Lynn said, "but we were very firm about having a Gipsy Moth."

"It was the newest we could get."

"To keep?" To keep? Questions going off like a string of small firecrackers.

"Yours," Lynn Dunn answered from the front of the car.

She can be seen in the car window. "Uncle Lynn, Uncle Lynn! Not belonging to me?" To fly?"

"All yours and only yours. Many happy returns from Great-Granny and Grandpa," Uncle Lynn said, "but we were very firm about having a Gipsy Moth."

"It was the newest we could get."

"Great-Granny, Uncle Lynn—" she began, trying to assemble an adequate sentence. She shut her eyes and said the words again for a long time, then opened them again, and the man and the woman and the boy who had sat still in a chair for more than half his life would always remember a?

"Yes. But first I must look!" She walked round and round the plane, several times putting out a hand to touch it. Then she went back to the door and said, "I have a hand each and stand staring at them."

"I'm so glad they make you happy, darling. But you haven't looked at the big box yet," she reminded her archly.

It would be from Duncan Van Doran, of course, from the automobile repair shop. She lit a cigarette. "Say... Uncle Lynn, Uncle Lynn! Not belonging to me?" To fly?"

"All yours and only yours. Many happy returns from Great-Granny and Grandpa," Uncle Lynn said, "but we were very firm about having a Gipsy Moth."

their houses were on fire and their children would burn?"

"I remember," Uncle Lynn and Great-grandma used to call me Ladylady, didn't they? I haven't thought of that for years."

"Have you, indeed?"

Something in her tone made Sarah Lynn half. "Please, mother," she said. "Tell me what's the matter?"

"I'm not like other girls," she said. "I'm not afraid of lightning. Lightning seems to set the pace but I'm not afraid to run if you like it."

"Certainly not!"

"I'm not afraid of lightning," she said. "The ground, at the bend of the road tensely silhouetted, was gazing fixedly into space. "Isn't she glorious when she's something? What? Her lines do things to me. Like sunsets and sunrises."

They rounded the curve and Sarah Lynn cried: "There's a plane! Look! Penny—plane in our field!" She began to run, Lightning bounding behind her.

There in the centre of the broad meadow, searing already toward the long, bright, rainless summer, an airplane stood on the ground like some great bird. But it did not look like Sarah Lynn and the pilot stood unbent beside it. Out of gas, probably. There was a closed car close by, and she was leaning over it. When she realized it was the one shared by her grandmother and her uncle.

She stood still, then, beginning to shake with excitement.

Her mother had stopped out of the machine and had run to her.

"Uncle Lynn, Uncle Lynn! Not belonging to me?" To fly?"

member the drowned glory of them. "Do you mind if I go?" she asked huskily.

"I remember," Uncle Lynn just up to put out. "Sally Lynn—the ancient woman told her, shyly competing with the noise of the motor."

The man sat with his good grin. "I'm a good driver, Mrs. Lynn," he said. "Lightning beside her, I can get you to the place you want."

"Just for a Private, of course. Private Flying License. That's the quickest. Ten hours instruction, ten days flying; that's the minimum."

INDEPENDENCE

In as much as there are indications of general elections for both federal and provincial houses within a few months a statement of policy of this paper may be in order so that readers may be able to judge its merit with out being deluded by partisan enthusiasm which will be engendered by a campaign.

This paper is owned by an individual with no control from any political or religious group and is here to serve all irrespective of affiliation. It will report meetings having regard to the limits of space available at the time.

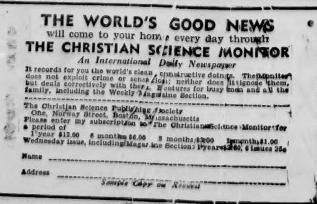

We cannot serve this district without revenue and such is derived through our newspaper space and job printing and we trust that all parties will use same. If one uses more space than another that is not our fault for it is there a merchant who would refuse to sell goods to a customer if the credit was satisfactory. Thus no one can justly complain of us printing bills or advertisements for our service is open to all.

Being independent does not mean we must be silent by reason of editors experience, following of events from an unbiased standpoint he may be able to point out some facts to the readers. We may do this if the circumstances warrant.

Another point applicable at all times the editor is human with full citizenship rights and in his personal life can take whatever part he likes in activities having regard for his reputation and standing in the community. He therefore can act on a committee for a church or party without influencing his conduct of the newspaper in the least. This is well known but often forgotten by the public especially during a campaign of any kind.

We like to think of elections in terms of a court of law like the lawyers, present their arguments to the jury-the electors. As there must be cool and wise consideration by the jury so must there be no strained feeling in the community. If a sane verdict is to be given.

A Justice like the editor see that all the facts are presented and in summing up often express his own opinion as a guide not an order. Having had the privilege of working through several campaigns, federal and provincial in both Manitoba and Ontario we feel confident we can be of service to our readers and the community spirit.

On Tuesday evening of last week the Ladies Aid of the United church gave another enjoyable social evening. The girls sang several pieces and the Smith boys delighted everyone with their dust. Mrs. Morrison entertained with a reading, "At The Movies". Five of the ladies gave a humorous One Act play, "The Civic Beautifying Committee". Their ultra modern hats forecast the coming seasons new styles.

More than twenty girls and their leaders held a "Sunrise Ceremony" on the River Hill where they watched the rising sun on Good Friday morning. They afterwards enjoyed a campfire breakfast.

On Monday of last week Robert Burns Lodge went to Barons for a Fraternal visit and on Tuesday went to Vulcan.

The flu epidemic is about over and school classes had returned to normal when school closed for Easter.

The school concert and dance will be held on April 26th in the community hall.

The local teachers have all returned home after Easter.

Mr. Cecil Burns left last week for Black Diamond where he has purchased a farm.

Nancy Parker entertained several friends on Thursday at a farewell party for Eileen De Mille.

A number of friends presented Mr. and Mrs. De Maria with a carvings set on the eve of their departure for High River. They will be greatly missed.

The local Veterinarian is kept busy vaccinating horses.

Mr. Russel Robson is donating all the proceeds of the picture show on April 21 to help purchase

BARONS

A special Easter service was held by the sun day school. It was largely attended. Programme was largely musical consisting of solos, choruses and special numbers.

Mrs. T. Peacock was a tea hostess on Wednesday afternoon when she entertained in honor of her mother in law Mrs. Charles Peacock of Armstrong, B.C.

Mr. I. J. Peacock left on Friday for a month's visit at Armstrong, when he will visit his father, Mr. Charles Peacock.

The Barons W.I. meeting has been postponed a week, owing to the illness of the president.

A charmingly arranged show or honoring Miss Margaret Kennedy, R.N. whose marriage to Mr. Stanley Paulson of Barons, took place on Easter Sunday, was the recipient of a variety of useful and dainty gifts. The gifts were presented in a doll carriage gaily decorated with pink and white and wheeled by Jean and Shirley Waggon.

Miss Sarah Kennedy, of Westlock was an out of town guest.

A show and eliminations for the Barons Amateur contest was held on Friday. The broad cast will be made from Barons on Friday April 14. A good turnout is expected, for besides the broadcast there is of course another first rate show. Best wishes and congratulations are offered to the eight contestants.

Mr. George Hutchings has returned to his home in Barons after a pleasant winter in Calif.

L. House and G. House both were injured when the motorcycle on which they were riding was overturned.

Mary Turner has returned home after completing her hair dressing course in Spokane.

AT THE CHURCHES

United-Rev. Peter Davison-the Minister Service at 7:30 p.m. Catholic service at 11 a.m., Fr. Ritter in charge.

Vulcan, Alberta.

Solicitor for the Administrator.

THE VALUE OF A LOCAL NEWSPAPER

Another example of how a local newspaper fills a community need is shown in the action of the merchants at Grimsby, Ontario. This newspaper, which is one of the best equipped plants in Ontario and serving a rich fruit district was forced to suspend in January, but the local people realizing what it would mean to without their paper rallied and the paper has started publication again.

Conditions have changed since the local paper in Grimsby stopped, the methods of doing business have altered and ever changing. Production costs are high, and comparisons cannot be made as to the success of one publication with another. The present owner has full confidence that with continued loyal support he can serve the district but the word from Grimsby serves as a gentle reminder that the Chronicle needs your friendship.

CONDITIONS HAVE CHANGED SINCE THE LOCAL PAPER IN GRIMSBY STOPPED

IT WOULD MEAN TO WITHOUT THEIR PAPER RALLIED AND THE PAPER HAS STARTED PUBLICATION AGAIN.
